

Our 2030 Strong Plan for Tasmania's Future

100 DAYS OF Delivery

21 June - 29 September 2026

Northern Heart Centre, Launceston General Hospital

DELIVERED

Message from the Premier

I'm very pleased to release the Tasmanian Government's latest 100-day report.

Our 100-day plans are a nation-leading initiative, demonstrating both transparency and delivery.

They show this is a government that both says what it will do and does what it says.

This latest 100 days has shown continuous delivery for Tasmanians, from strong family violence legislation to cost of living relief.

It is this work that underpins our ability to ensure the State's economy continues to perform well and, in many cases, leads national indicators.

- » State Final Demand nears a record $52 billion, the second strongest growth of all Australian States.
- » Residential building approvals grew 31 per cent, almost triple the national average of 11.6 per cent.
- » Tasmania's goods exports sit at a record $5.15 billion, a 12.7 per cent increase on the previous 12 months and outpacing the national average of 3.8 per cent.
- » Tasmania ranks best for business confidence and conditions in NAB – the only State or Territory to post both positives – and best on business conditions in the ANZ Stateometer.

This government is backing our businesses and industry to succeed, unlocking economic growth in Northern Tasmania with the release of the Northern Economic Plan.

We have worked for many years to secure the restart of the Mt Lyell copper mine, with new investment by the company of more than $490 million and up to 300 jobs after a decade in care and maintenance.

We welcome new private investment for data centres, creating skilled jobs and strengthening our digital economy, balanced by clear guidance for proponents, investors, industry, communities and stakeholders, with draft Expectations released that focus on maximising benefits to Tasmania.

In the North-West, we are close to welcoming a new era in Tasmanian tourism and freight opportunities with the new Spirit of Tasmania vessels on track to commence service in late October.

In the south, Lumina opened at the Tasman – a beautiful new event space literally made of Tasmania, built with Tasmanian Plantation Oak, grown here, harvested here and processed here.

And nearby, the transformational urban renewal of Macquarie Point is underway, with bulk earthworks preparing the site before major construction begins.

Across the State, we have a record $44.2 billion private investment pipeline, with the potential to support more than 5,300 ongoing direct full-time jobs.

We continue to invest record funding into essential services in health and hospitals, schools and Child and Family Learning Centres, public safety and social and affordable housing.

And we are making responsible operational efficiencies across government while protecting what matters most, so we can keep delivering the essential services Tasmanians need.

All without taxing Tasmanians more.

Our government will pursue all opportunities to keep building an even better Tasmania.

Jeremy Rockliff MP
Premier of Tasmania

Spotlight on Health

All around the country, States are facing increasing demand for health and hospital services. Tasmania is no different.

Our government has been steadily building our health workforce and delivering a suite of new and expanded health services designed to provide high-quality care in the right place, at the right time, while working to avoid unnecessary hospitalisations and Emergency Department presentations.

We are investing more than $15 billion in health over the next four years, more than $10 million every day.

Over the last four years, we've increased the total number of nurses, doctors, ambulance and allied professional staff by an additional 1,807 full-time equivalents (FTE), including an increase in full-time nursing staff of 163.52 FTE and 73 FTE doctors in the 2025-26 year.

We have also doubled the number of Tasmanian Ambulance operatives since 2014, welcoming 54 new paramedics so far this year, and Tasmania employs more ambulance officers for every 100,000 people than any other State at 80 FTE against an Australian average of 64.7 FTE.

Recruitment and retention have improved for the third year in a row, turnover rates for nurses continue to reduce each year, and Tasmania reported the lowest attrition rate in the nation for our ambulance operational workforce at 2.3 per cent in the Report on Government Services.

New programs that have been established under our Liberal Government and are now delivering care outside hospital settings - at home or in the community - include:
